

MBASchooled is a digital content platform dedicated to educating MBA applicants, students, and graduates throughout their educational and professional careers. At MBASchooled, we offer insightful analysis on all aspects of the MBA experience, including admissions, academics, student life, and recruiting.

Currently, we're looking to expand our coverage of the MBA experience, and increase our brand awareness amongst MBA programs. We're looking for current MBA students to join our team to make this happen, and are actively looking for folks who are passionate about the MBA experience and are interested in helping us further our mission of educating MBA aspirants, students, and graduates. If you are interested in this position, shoot us a quick note at mbaschooled@gmail.com

Position: MBA Intern (Fall, and/or Spring)

Description: We are looking for first or second year MBA students looking to gain hands-on internship experience to help a developing media company build its reputation in the online media space. You'll have autonomy and responsibility to work on a project of your choosing that helps MBASchooled define its strategic direction, improve its brand and reputation, or grow its user base. You'll function like a consultant and work directly with the Founding Team.

Ideal Candidates are:

- First or Second Year MBA Students, looking for academic credit or work experience
- People with topical interests in digital media, business school, or careers
- Functional interests in entrepreneurship, marketing, strategy, operations, or general management
- Capable of working remotely and without day to day supervision
- Interested in having significant responsibility and ownership over a project (or multiple projects)

What you'll get out of this

- Hands on experience working for a startup that is relevant to your function of choice
- Academic credit (pending approval of your MBA program)
- Significant responsibility and autonomy over a project, including determining the subject as well as providing and executing recommendations (Note: while you can decide on your own project, we are happy to provide you with some guidance as we have several ideas)
